LCP WRESTLING

Attention
Everyone: Novice
State is this weekend.
Great chance for Rookies and Novice alike to make some noise. Yeah never mind, I got the newsletter out too late.

LCP BATTLES THROUGH THE COTTON BOWL.

10th Edition

Club places 7 in Allen Texas (Tell everybody it's Dallas, they won't know the difference)

In the third stop of the Texas Iron Man, the Cotton Bowl, LCP sent 13 wrestlers and managed to place 7 in both the Rookie and Open Tournaments, despite some goofy brackets and questionable officiating.

Highlighting the weekend was Jack Hood,... but more on that later.

John Geiger survived a middle round loss to battle back to a second place finish.

Whoa! Did you see that? Harper Geracci, LCP's very own Great White Buffalo, made his first appearance at a National Tournament! Harper carried the flag for the club in the Heavyweight Division to get Second.

In the "Revenge is a Dish that is Best Served Cold" Category, Will Spencer avenged a rib injury earlier in the season en route to a fourth place finish. Will's next quest is to avenge the Scottish oppression by England. When asked how he planned to do this, Will simply replied, "FREEEEEDOOMMM!!"

All was not rosy for LCP in Dallas Allen however. In perhaps the single most disappointing finish for Lance Reed, the D3 90 Pound division was won by a kid with socks from a bar,... a bar in Stillwater Oklahoma. I'm not sure,

"Say it! Mel Gibson won two Oscars! Say it!"

Will Spencer uses movie trivia to win bombard his opponent into submission.

NEWSLETTER STAFF IRRITATED
AFTER NO ONE NOTICES LATEST EDITION IS LATE

The hundreds of staff people that work to put the LCP Newsletter together each week were expecting a firestorm Tuesday morning when no newsletter arrived on Monday. Instead they found nothing, nothing except ambivalence.

Because of this lack of public outcry, the Board of Directors for LCP Newsletter Inc. had an emergency meeting to discuss this tumultuous turn of events. The meeting was short lived as none of the board felt the need to attend.

The LCP Newsletter Editorial Newsletter staff was able to find some use for the non-meeting however, using it's non-occurrence to fill that grey rectangle on the left side of the second page of the newsletter.

but a single-wide with a mini fridge constitutes a bar in Stillwater.

Adding to the randomness of the Open Tournament was a large amount of BYEs and Forfeits in the D3 85 pound division. Leading the way was Joseph Molina who had his hand raised twice in forfeit. All parties in attendance agreed that this was a case of everyone being afraid of the LCP Wrestling Club.

On the Rookie side Jack McLaughlin and Bryce McLaren managed to go an entire tournament without wrestling each other into overtime. Jack stayed on the right side of the bracket the whole day finishing in second. Conversely, Bryce battled back from an opening round loss to capture fourth place.

Topping the Rookie day was Jack Hood capturing the Cotton Bowl Rookie Championship. According to one coach, "In his third match you can see Jack's opponent try to Tap Out. He squeezed the life out of the kid."

With Jack's victory this brings the LCP Cotton Bowl Rookie Championship winning streak to three years. Previous Rookie champions included Lance Reed and Kyle Tibbetts.

Sigh, ... Eskimo Joes (<http://www.eskimojoes.com/>). "Yeah, Lance lost to a kid wearing socks from "Stillwater's Jumpin' Little Juke Joint since 1975." I guess they were out of the "Future Hooter Girl" Tee-shirts.

"Why yes this second place trophy is almost as tall as me."

I swear to God, my wife called this an "action picture" of Steve and Brent.

Joseph gets his hand raised without working for the second time.

Harper gets his hand raised.

I guess there wasn't a football game with a bunch of free stuff for him to horde.

Sweet serenity!

Rookie coaches and parents relax during the Open Tournament.

MCLAUGHLIN KIDS FORCED TO CHANGE TIRE ON BUSY ROAD

Called, "Motivational"

One would think that the McLaughlin Clan would be satisfied with their first appearance at a National tournament, but abiding by the axiom that everywhere in life there are teachable moments, somehow the back tire of the McLaughlin family truckster, "mysteriously" went flat on Interstate 35.

When this happens most parents would; stop their car, keep their kids inside where it's safe, change the tire, and resume driving. Instead, over the top coach, Tyler McLaughlin felt the Socks? No you don't need socks.

Collins and Jack change a tire.

need to teach his kids some sort of lesson about wrestling and manual labor. No one is quite sure what this lesson is, but if you have any ideas, please let the Texas Department of Public Safety and Child Protective Services know as they are currently trying to decide what direction to take this "Incident."

Please be on the lookout for the McLaughlin kids this weekend on the side of the 290 as they may be pulling the transmission out of their dad's car in some sort of motivational ploy.

Wrestle someone with my medal?? Oh yeah it's on!!
Jack Hood shows off his Championship medal

Little less mugging little more cannonballing
Jack Hood doesn't tuck like he should, loses points on entry. Just sayin'.

Music Argument!
Hipster DJ Collins McLaughlin tries to explain how Vanilla Ice was the watershed moment for Hip Hop. Jack and Bryce attempt to remind of someone named, "Oh I don't know Jam Master Jay?!? He was the backbone or RUN DMC!" It doesn't end well.
